Neighborhood Institute

The Fall 2007 Class of the Neighborhood Institute is now underway! Session 4 was held last Monday evening at the Clifton Center.

Mike O'Leary of the Clifton Community Council presented "Information is Power". He discussed a broad array of public resources that neighborhood leaders can use as tools to help their in their work.

Metro Councilman Tom Owen also spoke on Monday evening. He presented a "History of Neighborhoods" in Louisville, and explained how every "place" has a story behind it. Did you know that the founders of Okolona wanted to call the area "Lone Oak"? However, "Lone Oak" was already taken by another community, thus requiring them to come up with a new name. They switched it to "Ok-a-lone-a" known today as "Okolona"!

We Need An Office Roommate!

Ella's history as a resident of Louisville is rich. She moved here from Montgomery, Ala., with her mother when she was 12 and has lived in many areas of the city, including Smoketown, Shawnee, Germantown, the South End and Phoenix Hill.

"When I was 16, our house in Phoenix Hill caught on fire and we moved to Sheppard Square [a public housing development in Smoketown]," she said.

We are located at the corner of 4th and Chestnut (610 South 4th Street), across from the Palace Theater and Public Radio. 7th floor, HUGE windows in every office, perfect East, South, and West views of the city from downtown.

The space can accommodate up to 4 people.

Preferable roommates....

- Small Non-Profit
- Graphic designer(s)
- Web developer(s)
- Writer(s)
- Small business

Amenities:

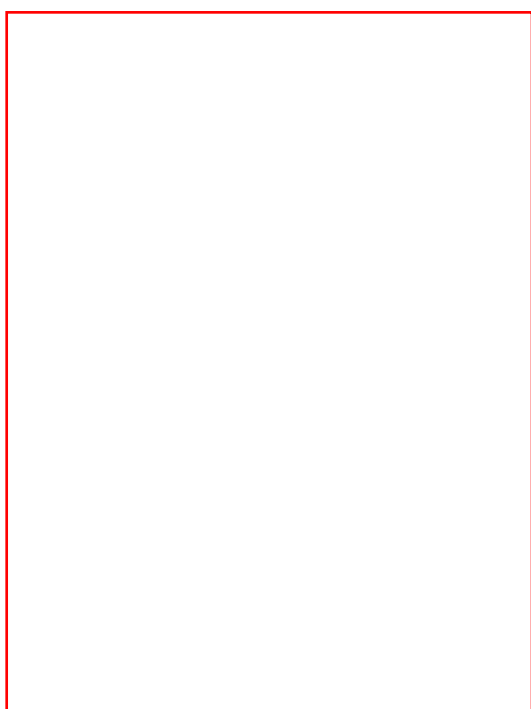

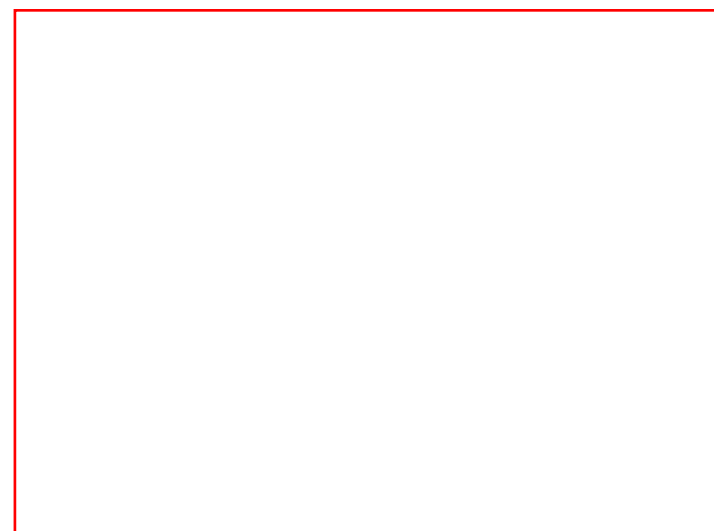

- 5 desks and other office furniture available
- Large conference room to share
- Kitchen with sink, storage, refrigerator, communal table where we eat lunch
- In-suite restroom
- Wireless network for laptops
- CAT5 cables running to business class DSL

Need to knows:

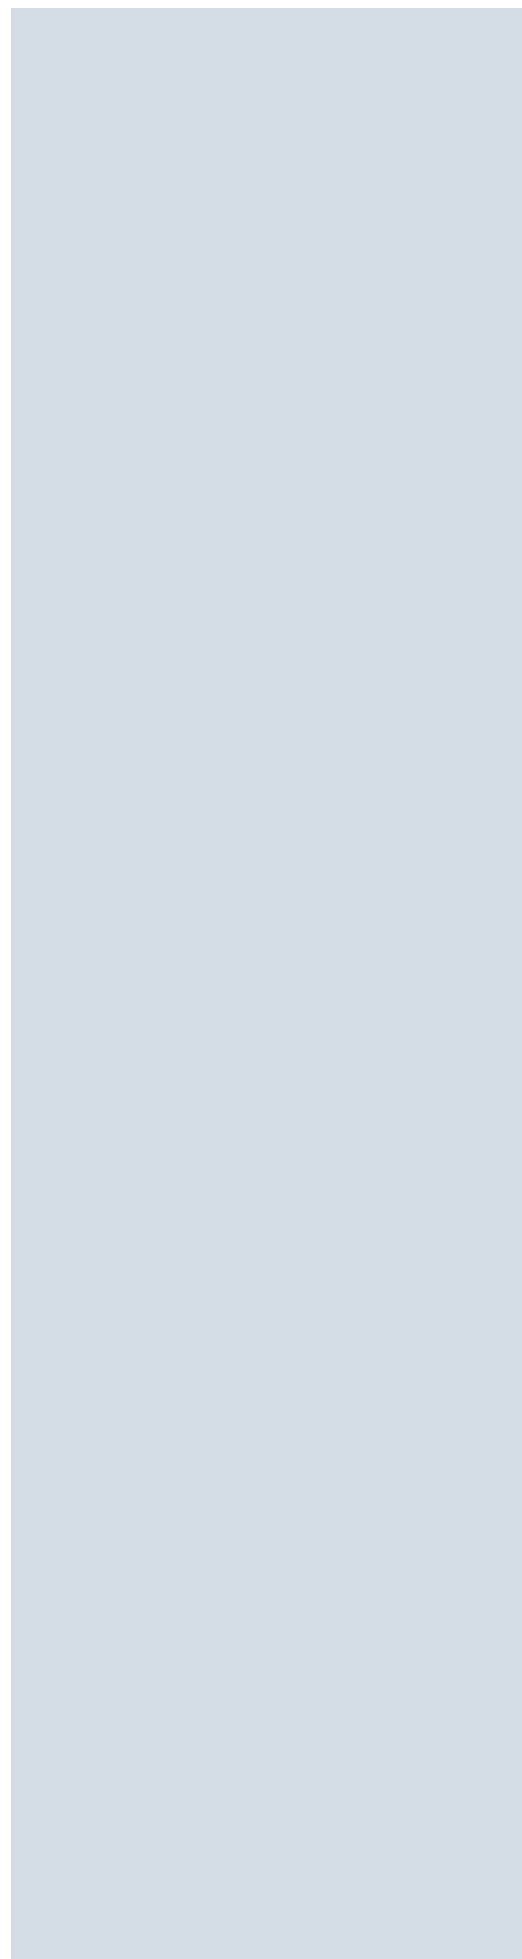

- Creative spirits will get along better in this space
- Center for Neighborhoods shares this space with River City Housing, a non-profit housing developer, so there would be three groups total if you joined us
- A high regard for basic community-values is essential (ethnic and economic diversity, gay rights, environmentalism, etc....) We're here to do hard work in the community and to support others seeking to achieve success and improve their quality of life. We seek roommates that are open-minded, fair, and share the same values.

The space is very affordable.
